My dear Mr. Fosdick:-

I thank you very much for the copy of your book on "European Police Systems," which I shall read at the first opportunity.

I have glanced hastily through it and it seems to me to be an exceptionally comprehensive piece of work. I am sure that it has been done with the thoroughness and the ability that marks all of your work and that it will prove an extremely valuable contribution to a topic the study of which is daily becoming of more importance in our American cities. At the very first opportunity I expect to read the book with much interest.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Brougham:-

I am sending you herewith a copy of Mr. Fosdick's book on European Police Systems. It has just been issued as the third volume of the Bureau of Social Hygiene series, the two former books being Mr. Kneeland's book on Commercialized Prostitution in New York City and my own book on Prostitution in Europe.

Mr. Fosdick's book is unique in that it is the first comprehensive and critical study in any language of the entire subject of the European police. Though Mr. Fosdick has himself, at no place, made any attempt to apply his observations and judgment to American conditions, the bearing of his work on our American problems will be constantly obvious to a thoughtful reader.

Dear Sir:

Permit me to express my keen appreciation of your letter of July 2, in regard to my book on European police systems. Coming from a practical police officer like yourself, I value your commendation all the more highly.

I am particularly glad to get the suggestion in regard to a further book on criminal investigation. I have been thinking recently that there really ought to be such a book written. My only doubt in the matter is whether I am the man to write it.

If I come to Seattle again, and I hope to very shortly, I shall take great pleasure in getting in touch with you.

Sincerely yours,

Mr. Raymond B Fosdick

New York City, N.Y.

Dear Sir, I wish to convey to you a belated Commendation of your book, on European Police Systems, and state that in this book you have set forth many facts and information of great value to students of Police Administration.
Books of this kind are exceedingly rare while there is an expansive literature on every other phase of municipal activity. The Police Officer in seeking knowledge useful to him in his daily business, searches the libraries with little hope of finding the object of his search.

True there is much theoretical discussion of "Collateral issues", such as Reformation of the Criminal, Prison Reform, influence of Education on Crime, etc., all important problems to be sure - but of little value in the solution of practical Police problems.

Many of us are looking forward to the publication of your work on "American Police Systems" with the same keen interest with which we awaited your "European Police Systems". But we do not want you to stop there; we wish you to proceed to yet another work; to a more exhaustive discussion of methods of Criminal investigation. And why not prepare a text book somewhat on the order of Cochran's Police Practice and procedure but taking up a more complete discussion of the material principles dealt with in this work.

I should have been glad to have discussed the need of filling in the void in practical Police literature, during your visit to Seattle, but was denied this pleasure owing to your brief stay, hence I take this means of bringing it to your attention. Thanking you in advance for your attention in reading so long a letter from a mere Police Officer I beg to remain

My dear Mr. Fosdick:

The book which you were good enough to send me arrived duly and your letter has lain too long unanswered, though the matter has never been forgotten by me.

Please accept my cordial thanks for your kind remembrance of me, and my appreciation of the valuable contribution which you have made towards the peace and order of the world, in your careful studies of the police systems.

I feel myself that it will be of great benefit to me, and I hope very much that your excellent work may lead to some better mode of providing against crimes going unwhipped of justice, simply because ocean-travel is now so easy.

. Our inability to secure extradition of escaped criminals, thus leaving their trial to be based on depositions merely, is much more than an inconvenience, and I hope some day to see a proper extradition-treaty adopted between Italy and our country.

I believe that the police authorities, for the most part, do the best they can; but the situation is, as you know, a very difficult one.

Dear Mr. Fosdick:

I am cordially appreciative of your friendly thought in placing in my hands a copy of your report on the Police Regulations of Europe.

Such a volume, presenting the results of direct investigations by a clear-headed scientist, must carry with it a full measure of authority. I am very glad to be able to include it in my collection of municipal literature.

I am at this time so much absorbed in international matters and in matters connected with the war of Aggression that my attention to municipal problems is delayed.

I am giving myself the pleasure of sending, in exchange for your volume, a copy of a book of ~~own~~ on a very different subject. Some of the men of your generation are, I find, interested in reminiscences of the Civil war period and I shall be glad if this book may find place in your collection.

And B. Fodor's book on European Police Systems. I am reading it with the greatest interest. Surely when the rearrangement of our European Society comes, after the war - all this mass of information & the result of experience must be of enormous value in the reconstruction of our social life.

The one thing I fear now is that we shall not make the best of the unique opportunity that war has given us of making a fresh start.

There is this much comfort that probably what has been formed already will not be lost. The different relations between different classes of operation of master & employee which have been so marked.

cannot do upland with the Further, I have received your last letter, asking if the second volume of my Manuel de Police Technique has yet appeared. Unfortunately I have not yet had the time to finish it, as I remained in Servia a year during the war, to make there an investigation into the abuses perpetrated by the Austro-Hungarian army. I think that my book, "Contributions to the Reorganization of the Police," (Editor: Payot, Lausanne, rue de Bourg) will interest you.

Dear Sirs:-

Permit me to thank you for your kindness in sending to me Mr. Fosdick's book on European police systems.

I have given the book but a cursory examination thus far and find it most instructive and interesting, and shall take great pleasure in reading it.

Again thanking you for sending it to me, I remain,

Dear Raymond -

Your book on European Police Systems has come and is being read. Do you realize how interesting your analysis is in view of the European war. Whether you meant to or not your parallel is drawn largely between English and German methods - that is as far as I have gone. The view you give of civil life in Germany as compared with Anglo Saxon notions of individual freedom rather makes you shudder to think what might happen if German "Kultur" is to spread west of the Rhine. Not to be out done in the authorship game I am sending you my latest Advertising booklet. JTS

In spite of the time for then to tell you so, I am very grateful for your book. When are you coming on to

My dear Raymond:

You have given me very great pleasure. I had read the press notices of your book, and had promised myself the satisfaction of reading it. I thank you for the copy which you have sent.

A first reading--necessarily somewhat hasty--leads me to note with satisfaction, the thoroughness of your work. It is clear, too. I found myself studying with keen interest, the table showing the police system of Paris.

Mayor Mitchell first interested me in the Police problems, by an argument which he made before the Cities Committees of the Legislature. Since then, I have read much on the subject, so that, while it is somewhat technical, I find it extremely interesting. The more so, because it is such an essential part of that great movement in which we all have such a vital interest, which has for its object better government in State and Nation.

Your letter, which I have attached to the front cover, adds immensely to the significance of this copy of the book. Believe me, your every achievement is to me a source of real satisfaction.

With personal regard, I am,

Very cordially yours,

Secretary to the President

Mr. Raymond B. Fosdick,
New York City.

February 17, 1915

President Woodrow Wilson
The White House
Washington, D.C.

My dear President:

I am venturing to send you under separate cover a copy of my book, "European Police Systems", which has just been published by the Ventury Company.

Perhaps you will recall that in connection with my investigation abroad you gave me a number of letters of introduction which made it possible for me successfully to prosecute my errand. Although I have before expressed my appreciation of your courtesy in this matter, let me take this opportunity to thank you again for your generous letters of introduction.

With kindest personal regards,

Cordially yours,

October 5, 1915

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise
23 West 90th Street
New York City

Dear Sir:

In reply to your letter of to-day, Mr. Fosdick is glad to send to you a copy of European Police Systems.

Yours truly,

EOW

Secretary

Dear Madam:

I beg to thank you for your kindness in sending Dr. Wise a copy of Mr. Fosdick's volume on "Police System of Europe".

Very truly yours,

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

February 24, 1915.

Raymond B. Fosdick, Esquire,
17 Battery Place,
New York, N. Y.

My dear Mr. Fosdick:

Acknowledging the due receipt of your letter of the 17th instant, I now beg to state that a copy of your book on "European Police Systems" has also reached me. I am sure I shall find this of great interest and value. It is a good sign of our times that so many of our younger men are devoting real study to the problems presented by contemporary life. If we do not have respectable governments in our cities, states and nation it will not be because of lack of sound information.

With all best wishes,

I am

Very truly yours,

Mr. Raymond B. Fordick.

Dear Sir: The Appletons have sent me a copy of your book on The European Police System. Your card came with it and I infer that you instructed the publisher to send me the book.

I appreciate this compliment very much, and beg to thank you for it. I had read the book, however, and had used it in my class on Civics at the School of Civics and Philanthropy. I expect to use it again, and I tell the class that it is the best work on the subject - sound, comprehensive, scientific and well-written. We include it in our prescribed reading.

Thanking you again, I am, with high regard,

Sincerely yours,

Victor S. Yarros.
